Y. W. C. A. Notes.

Last evening a most enjoyable Halloween party was held at the Young Woman's Christian Association gymnasium, to which all the members of the association were invited. The gymnasium was decorated in the witches and cats and owls and bats, and those who enjoyed the party were dressed to represent different characters of Mother Goose rhymes. Several stunts were given which were highly entertaining. First was the event of the beheading of Mary Queen of Scots, when the club girls from the Hazel Atlas glass plant most realistically represented that event. Then came the "Thanksgiving dinner" given by the business girls' club. In this stunt the girls represented the different parts of a Thanksgiving dinner and its effect on the digestive, and there were roars of laughter during the entire stunt. Besides the stunts, the aeroplane offered free rides, the fly family exhibited its wonders, and the Indian fortune teller was kept busy.

to Mr. and Mrs. Althouse for these special concerts. The costume of Dimitri, the role created by Mr. Althouse in "Boris" is of striking beauty, consisting of glowing under tunic in Bakst colors, a richly embroidered coat covered by a long Russian cloak of red, heavily trimmed with black fur. Red Russian boots and an imposing head dress complete the dress. Marina will wear the traditional Russian festival costume of yellow silk ornamented with pearl, a remarkable piece of native needlecraft. Both these costumes, which are the property of the Metropolitan Opera Company, were imported by it from Russia in its opera authentically costumed.

GESSNER SEES G. O. P. VICTORY

Survey of the State of West Virginia Brings Joy to the Republicans.

PARKERSBURG, Nov. 2.—A survey of the West Virginia situation can only give joy to the Hughes and Fairbanks' adherents and distress to the Democratic foe, "was the summing up sentence of the Hon. Francis B. Gessner, political envoy of the Republican organization and long known in West Virginia as a Washington correspondent. "I make this statement," he added, "after a careful going over many other sections of the state and supplementing such observation with reports given by eminent state leaders who have visited national headquarters in the East and have unfolded their information and prediction in Gotham. It is pleasing to find that all of their claims were justified and each section I have thus far visited in behalf of the party of righteousness has confirmed the reports given by the faithful."

"I am very well aware that election is only a week hence but I am not afraid to risk my reputation as a prophet in proclaiming a wonderful Republican sweep next Tuesday. That sweep began in Maine and has gathered impetus each day until the avalanche of another seven days' accumulation will leave the Democrats a dismal recollection, nothing more. Cheering it to us all to find West Virginia doing its finest not only at Headquarters at Clarksburg, but in every district and county. In fact the magnificent industry and wisdom displayed by local committees working in harmony with Messrs. Gaines, Highland, Leikin and Gessner at the capital of Harrison county is the striking feature of this West Virginia campaign. When you recall that with all the smash and crash of things four years ago, the Republican state ticket went out along with senator you must be more confident that this year will achieve even higher figures besides adding some Republican Congressmen to the list at Washington. You are sure of Howard Sutherland, the senator and I can note with pride that he is making a wonderful campaign. He came over from his daughter's wedding, Sunday night, going to the southern end of the state and when the campaign ends will have visited every county of the commonwealth."

"I was impressed with a new departure in politics while at headquarters in Clarksburg. An office has a sign over the door noting that the office is that of the national committee member—the Hon. Virgil L. Highland. Now this is somewhat striking because unusual, but Highland is a big, broad business man and inclined to have new ways also ways of his own. I venture no other state committee on the map has the national committee member on the job at home with the grip and watchful methods of the Hon. Virgil L. Highland. You find other national committee members conferring in New York or detailed for work in other states but not so Highland and already he is mentioned for a cabinet place if West Virginia is even to be Garden scene from "Boris Goudonoff" (Mussorgsky). Miss Brenska and Mr. Althouse.

Synopsis: The garden scene from "Boris Goudonoff" occurs in act three, and is the crisis of the opera. Dimitri, the false Dimitri of history, is the pretender to the power of Marina, daughter of a powerful nobleman. He loves her devotedly, beyond all his dreams of a throne; but not so Marina. She is proud, ambitious and has but one goal, to become the ruler of Russia. This she attempts to gain by inflaming the ambition of her lover. She refuses him her love until he enters Moscow as Tzar, telling him there are plenty of Muscovite girls who will marry him, but that she, Marina, must marry a man of courage, a Tzar. When at last, maddened by her taunts, he spurns her, she begs him to forgive her, saying she has been acting for his own good knowing that his future, and that of the nation are at stake. The scene closes with the love duet and Marina's cry of subterfuge, "O Mo Tzar." (Oh, my czar).
Mr. Althouse and Miss Brenska will wear the real Russian costumes when they sing the garden scene from "Boris Goudonoff." The Metropolitan Opera Company has loaned the gorgeous costumes of Dimitri and Marina

CORNWELL

Is Challenged to Deny That He is the Candidate of Clarence W. Watson.

PHILIPPI, Nov. 2.—Judge Ira E. Robinson invaded the Tygart's valley Wednesday in his campaign for the governorship. He was accompanied by Ex-Governor A. B. White, of Parkersburg, at 9 o'clock Wednesday the ex-governor and next governor addressed an enormous crowd and in this town at 11 o'clock only a few of those who wanted to hear the speakers could crowd into the court house.
The judge continues to speak out in warning against Watsonism and danger of its insidious power in the event of the election of Watson's candidate, John J. Cornwell.
"I challenge Mr. Cornwell to deny that he is Watson's candidate or that he consulted Watson before becoming a candidate in the Democratic primary," said the judge.

LUNACY

Is Suspected in Case of Northview Man in Jail under Burglary Charge.

Magistrate W. E. Starcher is undecided as to whether George Heater, a young man of Northview who was recently placed in the county jail under a burglary charge, should be tried in his court under that charge or be examined as to his sanity by the county lunacy commission. The magistrate has asked the county jail physician to examine and observe the prisoner and make a report on his mental condition before further action is taken.
Heater was taken to the county jail a night or two ago by A. Riegs, of Northview, who alleged that Heater smashed a window and injured Mrs.
